People: Human | Elf | Obsidiman | T'skrang | ask the table

Bearing: unnervingly still | hunched from years of study | moves as if listening to something unseen

Eyes: rimmed with astral fatigue | pale and distant | flickering with spirit-sight

Build: gaunt and hollow-cheeked | slight and precise | heavy with elemental stillness

Clothing: layered robes marked with astral sigils | dark leathers stained with reagents | formal adept vestments, frayed at the edges

Signature: a spirit lodestone | cadaver ink stains on fingers | the faint smell of ozone and old bone

BACKGROUND

Pick one.

KAER NETHERMANCER

You were your kaer's watcher against the Horrors, the one who tested the wards from inside. When you examine a sealed place, ward, or magical barrier, ask the GM one: what breached it, what holds it together, or what waits on the other side.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you lived in the kaer I protected?
- Which of you has seen the marks the Scourge left on me?
- Which of you trusts my judgment about Horror corruption?
- Which of you believes my vigil broke something inside me?

ASTRAL CARTOGRAPHER

You map the hidden terrain of astral space, charting corruption, spirit currents, and thread anchors. When you spend time studying the astral landscape of a location, take +1 forward to any move involving magic, spirits, or Horror-taint in that area.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you has carried one of my astral charts and seen it prove true?
- Which of you wandered into a place I warned was corrupted?
- Which of you thinks I see things that are not there?
- Which of you wants me to read the astral marks on something they carry?

SPIRIT BROKER

You negotiate with the dead as others negotiate at market. When you offer a spirit something it wants -- a name spoken, a debt settled, a body buried -- it must answer one question honestly or perform one small service before departing.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you has a dead companion whose spirit I have spoken with?
- Which of you owes a debt to the dead that I helped broker?
- Which of you thinks dealing with spirits is a path to Horror-mark?
- Which of you watched me pay a price they thought was too high?

HORROR STALKER

You have touched Horror-taint and walked away changed. When you sense a Horror or its construct for the first time, the GM tells you one thing about its nature, its weakness, or its hunger.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you was there when I first touched the Horror-taint?
- Which of you checks me for corruption when they think I am not looking?
- Which of you knows that what I hunt also hunts me?
- Which of you would put me down if I turned?

STARTING MOVES

ASTRAL SIGHT

When you open your perception to the astral plane, roll +INT. On a 10+, the GM describes the astral condition of your surroundings: threads, corruption, spirit presence, magical wards. On a 7-9, you see clearly, but something in astral space notices you looking.

SUMMON ALLY SPIRIT

When you call a spirit from the netherworld and bind it to service, roll +INT. On a 10+, it appears and serves faithfully for the scene -- choose its nature: messenger, guardian, or spy. On a 7-9, it serves, but it demands something: a memory, a drop of blood, or a future favor.

SPIRIT TONGUE

When you speak with the dead -- a corpse, a haunt, or a lingering presence -- you may ask them two questions. They must answer, though the dead remember imperfectly and see through the lens of their last emotions.

HORROR WARD

When you inscribe protective sigils against Horror influence on a person, object, or threshold, roll +INT. On a 10+, the ward holds strong -- the next Horror-taint, possession attempt, or astral intrusion targeting the warded subject fails. On a 7-9, the ward holds but cracks: it will stop one attempt, then break.

THREAD WEAVING

When you weave a magical thread between yourself and a place, object, or willing person, mark the connection. While the thread holds, you can sense strong emotions, danger, or corruption affecting the other end, regardless of distance. You can maintain threads equal to your INT (minimum 1).

NETHERMANTIC BOLT

When you channel raw netherworld energy at a target, deal your damage at `near`. The bolt is cold, dark, and visible in astral space.

ADVANCES

- Banish the Unbound: When you confront a free-roaming spirit or astral entity and command it to depart, roll +INT. On a 10+, it is driven back across the veil. On a 7-9, it goes, but it remembers you.
- Blood Oath Reading: When you taste blood willingly given, you learn one truth about the giver: their deepest fear, their strongest bond, or whether they bear Horror-taint.
- Astral Fortress: When you fortify a camp or shelter with astral wards, the group cannot be surprised by spirits, undead, or Horror constructs while resting there.
- Deeper Sight: When you use Astral Sight, on a 12+ you may also ask the GM: what is hidden here, what was here before, or what thread connects this place to another?
- Speak with Horror: You may attempt to communicate with a Horror or its construct. The GM will tell you what it wants. This does not make it friendly.
- Improved Stat: Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +2.
- Superior Stat (Requires: Improved Stat, at least one other advance): Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +3.

DRIVES

- Uncover the truth about a Horror, spirit, or astral mystery.
- Protect someone from corruption they do not yet see.
- Use the fear others have of your discipline to achieve something without violence.
- Pay a personal cost to keep the netherworld from spilling into the living world.

Clothing: travel-stained leathers and layered cloaks | camouflaged wraps and earth tones | light scout harness with many pockets

Signature: Horror-mark tally carved into a blade | a map case never out of reach | a sprig of living plant from the old world

BACKGROUND

Pick one.

KAER OPENER

You were among the first to unseal your kaer and step outside after the Scourge. When you enter a new ruin, settlement, or wild place for the first time, ask the GM one: what has changed since the Scourge, what still works as it was meant to, or what left its mark here?

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you was in the kaer when I opened the door?
- Which of you followed me out into the light?
- Which of you does not understand what those first steps cost?
- Which of you saw what I saw outside and chose to go back in?

HORROR-MARK READER

You have learned to read the signs Horrors leave on the land: twisted growth, maddened animals, warped stone. When you study a trail or area for signs of Horror passage, the GM tells you how recent, how powerful, and in which direction.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you have I pulled back from a Horror-marked path?
- Which of you thinks I see danger where there is none?
- Which of you carries something I suspect bears a Horror-mark?
- Which of you has seen me freeze when the signs were too fresh?

WILDERNESS THREAD WEAVER

You weave threads to the living land itself -- reading weather in root patterns and danger in birdsong. When you spend a few minutes attuning to a natural place, take +1 forward to navigate, forage, or avoid danger there.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you has trusted my reading of the land and been proven right?
- Which of you thinks thread magic belongs only in cities and libraries?
- Which of you walked with me when I followed a thread to something unexpected?
- Which of you has seen me speak to the land and heard it answer?

EXPEDITION PATHFINDER

You have guided groups through post-Scourge wilderness before -- not all of them came back whole. When you lead a group through dangerous terrain, you always spot the first danger before it spots you.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you survived an expedition I led?
- Which of you blames me for someone who did not come back?
- Which of you hired me despite my reputation?
- Which of you has seen me turn back from a path and refuse to explain why?

STARTING MOVES

READ THE CORRUPTION

When you study a creature, place, or object for signs of Horror-taint, roll +WIS. On a 10+, the GM tells you clearly: is it tainted, how deeply, and what kind of Horror left the mark. On a 7-9, you get a strong impression -- tainted or clean -- but the details are unclear or unsettling.

SILENT PASSAGE

When you move through dangerous terrain without being detected, roll +DEX. On a 10+, you pass unseen and unheard -- choose one bonus: you find a safe path others can follow, you spot something hidden, or you get close enough to observe without risk. On a 7-9, you pass through, but choose one cost: you leave a trail, something senses you but cannot find you, or the safe window is brief.

SCOURING EYE

When you survey an area from a vantage point or spend time studying a ruin, ask the GM two of the following: Where is the danger? What is the safest way through? What was this place before the Scourge? Is there something valuable or useful here? What has been here recently?

KAER SENSE

When you enter a sealed or partially opened kaer, ancient ruin, or underground shelter, roll +WIS. On a 10+, your instincts are sharp -- the GM tells you whether it is safe, occupied, or compromised by Horror influence. On a 7-9, you get a feeling -- something is wrong, or something is waiting -- but not what.

PATHFINDER'S STRIKE

When you attack from ambush or from a position your target did not know you occupied, deal your damage and choose one: you remain hidden, you pin them in place, or you create an opening for an ally.

LIVE OFF THE LAND

When you forage, hunt, or find shelter in the post-Scourge wilderness, roll +WIS. On a 10+, you find what you need -- food, water, shelter, or medicinal herbs -- enough for the group. On a 7-9, you find enough for yourself and one other, or enough for all but it takes longer than expected.

ADVANCES

- Horror-Scarred Veteran: You have faced a Horror directly and survived. You are immune to mundane fear, and when you face Horror-spawned terror, take +1 to resist.
- Thread Sight: When you focus on a magical thread -- yours or another's -- you can trace it to its anchor. The GM tells you the direction and approximate distance.
- Vanish: When you are in natural terrain, you can simply disappear. No roll needed. Finding you requires magic or superhuman senses.
- Dead Reckoning: You never get lost. Even underground, even in astral fog, even in Horror-twisted terrain, you always know which direction leads to safety.
- Coordinated Ambush: When you set up an ambush and your allies follow your signal, everyone in the ambush takes +1 forward on their first action.
- Improved Stat: Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +2.
- Superior Stat (Requires: Improved Stat, at least one other advance): Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +3.

DRIVES

- Be the first to enter a dangerous place so others do not have to.
- Discover a lost kaer, ruin, or settlement and learn what happened there.
- Identify Horror corruption before it spreads.
- Guide someone safely through the changed world.

BACKGROUND

Pick one.

CRYSTAL RAIDER OF THE TWILIGHT PEAKS

You were raised among the crystal raiders, where the moot is family, and the sky is law. When you invoke the honor of your moot to demand hospitality, passage, or parley from another aerial group, roll +CHA. On a 10+, they respect the code and oblige. On a 7-9, they demand a gift, a contest, or a favor first.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you survived a raid I led or witnessed?
- Which of you has shared a fire with me on an airship deck under the stars?
- Which of you do I suspect is afraid of heights?
- Which of you carries something I once wanted to take but chose not to?

KAER-BREAKER

Your moot was among the first to pry open sealed kaers after the Scourge, claiming salvage rights on what the world forgot. When you force open a sealed passage, locked vault, or barricaded door, take advantage.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you came from a kaer my people opened?
- Which of you thinks I treat the dead without enough respect?
- Which of you has seen what can still be living inside a sealed kaer?
- Which of you owes their freedom to my moot's crowbars and courage?

STORM-SWORN REAVER

You pledged yourself to the wind and storm, and it answers in kind. When you fight on the deck of a moving vessel, on a bridge, on a cliff-face, or anywhere the wind howls, take +1 forward to your first attack.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you has sailed with me through a tempest?
- Which of you thinks my vows to the storm are madness?
- Which of you pulled me back from a fall I should not have survived?
- Which of you do I believe has the heart of a sky raider, whether they know it or not?

EXILE OF A FALLEN MOOT

Your moot was destroyed -- by Horrors, treachery, or Theran chains. You carry its name alone now. The first time each session you take a risk to avenge, honor, or rebuild what your moot lost, mark XP.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you knows what destroyed my moot?
- Which of you has heard me speak the names of the dead when I think no one listens?
- Which of you do I want to claim as moot-kin, though I haven't said so?
- Which of you fears I will drag the group into my private war?

STARTING MOVES

BATTLE SHOUT

When you roar a war cry as you charge into melee, roll +STR. On a 10+, choose 2. On a 7-9, choose 1.

- Your enemies flinch, hesitate, or scatter before your charge.
- An ally who hears you takes +1 forward on their next action.
- You close the distance instantly, ignoring obstacles or terrain between you and your foe.

SKY WEAVING

When you leap between airship decks, swing from rigging, or traverse a precarious height in combat, roll +DEX. On a 10+, you land exactly where you want and may strike immediately. On a 7-9, you get there but choose one: you drop something, you take a blow on the way, or you end up exposed.

FIREBLOOD

When you take damage and let rage flood through you instead of flinching, you may deal +1d4 damage on your next attack. If you do, the GM will tell you what reckless thing your fury also causes.

DOWN STRIKE

When you attack a foe from above -- leaping from a mast, a cliff, a mount, or anything higher than your enemy -- your attack gains `forceful` and `messy`.

TROPHY OF THE BOLD

When you claim a trophy from a defeated foe in front of witnesses, name the deed. Until you next make camp, you take +1 forward when acting with boldness or intimidation related to that deed.

THREAD OF THE MOOT

You carry a thread -- a magical bond -- to your moot, your airship, or a treasured weapon passed down through raids. Name it. When you are separated from it, you always know its direction and roughly how far away it is. When you hold it and speak your moot's battle-oath, take +1 forward against a foe that has wronged your people.

ADVANCES

- Boarding Master: When you lead a charge onto an enemy vessel, structure, or fortification, allies who follow you take +1 forward.
- Blood Oath: You may shed your own blood to seal a promise. If you keep it, mark XP when the oath is fulfilled. If you break it, take -1 ongoing until you atone.
- Storm's Fury: When you fight outdoors in wind, rain, or storm, your attacks gain `forceful`.
- Horror Stalker: When you face a Horror or Horror-construct, you may ask the GM one question about its weakness or fear before you act.
- Unbreakable Moot-Bond: When an ally within reach would take damage, you may take it instead. If you do, deal +1d4 damage on your next attack.
- Improved Stat: Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +2.
- Superior Stat (Requires: Improved Stat, at least one other advance): Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +3.

DRIVES

- Claim plunder, glory, or territory that others said was unreachable.
- Defend a member of your moot or chosen family against overwhelming odds.
- Defy a tyrant, a Theran, or anyone who would put chains on the free.
- Leap before you look and survive to boast about it.

People: Elf | Human | T'skrang | Windling | ask the table

Bearing: poised like a drawn blade | casual until the sword clears the sheath | measured and elegant

Eyes: calm and reading every movement | bright with artistic intensity | hooded and knowing

Build: lean and precise | graceful as a dancer | small but devastatingly quick

Clothing: dueling leathers with embroidered patterns | flowing silks over light mail | threadbare finery from a better time

Signature: a blade with a name | a single glove on the off-hand | a scar worn like a badge of honor

BACKGROUND

ACADEMY BLADE OF THROAL

You trained in the dwarven kingdom's finest sword-school, where technique is catalogued like engineering and every stance has a name in three languages. When you study an opponent's fighting style before engaging, ask the GM one: what training have they had, what habit will betray them, or what are they afraid of?

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you has watched me practice and understood what you saw?
- Which of you thinks discipline is a cage rather than a gift?
- Which of you did I once correct on how to hold a weapon?
- Which of you do I consider a worthy sparring partner?

WANDERING BLADE-SINGER

You travel from town to ruined town, trading performances and duels for lodging and legend. When you perform a display of swordsmanship before an audience, roll +CHA. On a 10+, choose 2. On a 7-9, choose 1.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- They offer shelter, food, or information freely.
- A potential patron, rival, or lover reveals themselves.
- Word of your skill spreads; take +1 forward with people who heard of the performance.
- Which of you saw one of my performances and was moved by it?
- Which of you thinks my art is frivolous in a world still scarred by Horrors?
- Which of you do I want to compose a blade-song about?
- Which of you carries a wound I gave in a duel I regret?

DUELLIST OF A FALLEN COURT

You served a noble house that was destroyed during or after the Scourge. Your blade remembers the forms of a court that no longer exists. When you invoke the etiquette of the old courts to demand a formal duel, challenge, or contest of honor, your opponent must accept or lose face before all present.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you knows the name of the house I served?
- Which of you has tried to convince me to let the past die?
- Which of you do I secretly wish had been born in time to see the old court?
- Which of you did I challenge before I understood them?

THREAD-MARKED SEEKER

You pursue the art of the perfect strike -- a single blow woven with thread magic into something transcendent. You have woven a thread to your blade. Name it. Once per session, when you land a decisive blow, describe a brief flash of the thread's history or the weapon's legend. Mark XP.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you has felt the hum of my blade's thread and been unsettled?
- Which of you believes thread magic is dangerous and arrogant?
- Which of you do I trust to carry my blade if I fall?
- Which of you witnessed the moment I first wove the thread?

STARTING MOVES

RIPOSTE

When you parry an enemy's attack and immediately counter-strike, roll +DEX. On a 10+, you avoid their blow entirely and deal your damage. On a 7-9, you trade blows -- deal your damage but take theirs as well.

MANEUVER

When you use superior footwork, feints, or positioning to gain tactical advantage in melee, roll +DEX. On a 10+, choose 2. On a 7-9, choose 1.

- You force your opponent where you want them -- a ledge, a corner, a companion's reach.
- You create an opening; take +1 forward on your next attack.
- You keep your guard flawless; take +1 armor until you move or attack.

TAUNT

When you insult, mock, or challenge a foe's skill to draw their attention and fury onto yourself, roll +CHA. On a 10+, they focus on you completely; allies acting against them take advantage. On a 7-9, you have their attention, but they come at you harder than expected -- the GM will say how.

BLADE MEDITATION

When you spend a quiet moment with your blade -- cleaning it, balancing it, speaking to it -- choose one: heal 1d4 HP, clear a debility related to fear or despair, or ask the GM what your instincts tell you about the nearest danger.

ASSESS THE DUEL

When you cross blades with a new opponent for the first time, you may ask the GM one: are they better than me, what is their signature move, or what will they sacrifice to win?

FLOURISH

When you perform a dazzling display of bladework in the middle of combat -- spinning, cutting the air, or executing a perfect form -- choose one ally. They take +1 forward, inspired. If Horrors, spirits, or magical beings are watching, they must acknowledge your artistry; the GM will tell you how they react.

ADVANCES

- First Blood: When you deal damage to a foe who has not yet been wounded in this fight, deal +1d4 damage.
- Thread Sight: You can sense the presence of active threads -- magical bonds between Namegivers and items, places, or patterns. You cannot read them, only feel them.
- Perfect Parry: Once per fight, you may completely negate one melee attack against you. Describe the technique.
- Sword's Philosophy: When you counsel someone about fear, loss, or purpose using a lesson from bladework, roll +WIS. On a 10+, they take +1 forward and you mark XP. On a 7-9, the lesson stings -- they take +1 forward but resent you for it.
- Dance of Death: When you fight two or more foes alone, take +1 armor as long as you keep moving and do not stop to help anyone else.
- Improved Stat: Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +2.
- Superior Stat (Requires: Improved Stat, at least one other advance): Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +3.

DRIVES

- Seek out a worthy opponent and face them blade-to-blade.
- Protect someone who cannot defend themselves using only your skill.
- Learn the name, history, or legend of a weapon, technique, or fallen master.
- Demonstrate that art and beauty still matter in a world scarred by Horrors.

TROUBADOUR

You carry the names the Scourge tried to devour, and when you speak them aloud the world remembers what it was.

NAME

Pick a name:

Elf: Alaethia, Celedyr, Tessael, Yrethiel / Ardinn, Jael'than, Mereliath, Thandril

Human: Hessa, Korina, Myla, Zetha / Aldrik, Dvarim, Jareck, Tomash

T'skrang: K'lalei, Ssrath'ali, V'striia, Zessika / Ch'taal, H'rakan, T'skarro, V'skarr

Windling: Dilli, Larke, Pim, Tassa / Brindl, Flick, Nisk, Zephik

LOOK

Pick one from each row:

People: Elf | Human | T'skrang | Windling | ask the table

Bearing: poised and listening | animated and gesturing | quiet until the moment comes

Eyes: old beyond your years | bright with gathering stories | half-closed as if hearing music no one else can

Build: dancer's grace | road-weathered traveler | small and quick-fingered

Clothing: embroidered road cloak over faded finery | kaer-style layers with thread-woven hems | scaled performer's vest and sash

Signature: a voice that fills any hall | ink-stained fingers and a naming journal | a token from every kaer you have opened

BACKGROUND

Pick one.

KAER CHRONICLER

You were born underground, memorizing the tales of Before so they would survive. When you recite established lore to fill a gap in knowledge, the GM will tell you something extra that the original tellers hid between the lines.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you emerged from the same kaer as me, or one nearby?
- Which of you carries a story I have not yet recorded?
- Which of you doubts the histories I preserve?
- Which of you has seen me weep over a tale that ended badly?

THREAD WEAVER

You sense the invisible threads that bind Names to the world. When you study an item, place, or person of significance, ask the GM: what thread was broken here, or what thread is waiting to be woven?

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you has a thread I can feel but cannot yet read?
- Which of you has asked me to trace the pattern of something lost?
- Which of you fears what I might find woven into their Name?
- Which of you has felt the pull when I weave a thread nearby?

HORROR NAMER

You learned that naming a Horror weakens it, and silence feeds it. The first time each session you speak the true Name of a Horror, a corrupt influence, or a buried shame, mark XP.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you has heard me name something that should not be named?
- Which of you saw my hands shake after I spoke that Name?
- Which of you thinks naming the darkness only calls it closer?
- Which of you trusts me to know when silence is safer?

WANDERING SONGSMITH

You walk the roads between kaers carrying news, songs, and the comfort of shared voice. When you arrive in a settlement and perform for the people, take advantage on your next attempt to get information, passage, or shelter.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you first heard me sing by a roadside fire?
- Which of you knows the song I refuse to finish?
- Which of you has traveled the farthest with me already?
- Which of you thinks my wandering is running from something?

STARTING MOVES

WEAVE TALE

When you tell a tale of a hero, a place, or a deed to strengthen its pattern, roll +CHA. On a 10+, choose 2. On a 7-9, choose 1.

- One listener is inspired; they take +1 forward on their next dangerous act.
- The tale reveals a hidden truth: the GM shares a useful detail about the subject.
- The pattern holds: the Horror mark, corruption, or despair touching the subject weakens visibly.

NAME THE NAMELESS

When you speak the true Name of a creature, place, or Horror-taint to strip its power, roll +CHA. On a 10+, it flinches, falters, or is revealed for what it truly is; take +1 forward against it. On a 7-9, your naming wounds it, but the effort costs you: the GM tells you what it learned about you in return.

THREAD SIGHT

When you study a person, object, or place for the magical threads that bind it to the world, roll +WIS. On a 10+, ask the GM 2 of the following. On a 7-9, ask 1.

- What thread connects this to something greater?
- What thread here has been severed or corrupted?
- What Name does this answer to?

LORE OF THE SCOURGE

You carry the histories that survived the Long Night. When you consult your knowledge about a kaer, a Horror, a Namegiver culture, or the world before the Scourge, roll +INT. On a 10+, the GM tells you something specific and useful. On a 7-9, the GM tells you something general, and hints at what lore has been lost or twisted.

HEARTENING WORD

When you speak courage into an ally who is afraid, wounded, or despairing, they heal 1d4 HP or shake off a fear or compulsion. You can only do this for each ally once per scene.

PERFORMANCE OF NAMING

When all attention is on your performance and you invoke the Names of those present, each ally in earshot gains +1 armor against Horror powers, magical fear, and corruption until the performance ends or you are silenced.

ADVANCES

- Voice of the Passion: Choose a Passion (Astendar, Floranuus, Chorrolis, etc.). When you invoke its ideals in a tale or naming, your Weave Tale choices also grant +1 ongoing for that scene to anyone who shares that Passion's values.
- Unraveler: When you Name a Horror or corruption and roll a 12+, it recoils entirely, losing its hold on one victim, place, or object.
- Living Library: Once per session, declare that you know an obscure tale about the exact situation at hand. The GM must incorporate it.
- Thread Singer: When you Weave Tale for a magical item, you may awaken or strengthen one thread; the GM tells you what it can now do.
- Tale of Shields: When you perform a tale of endurance during a rest, each ally who listens heals an additional 1d6 HP.
- Improved Stat: Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +2.
- Superior Stat (Requires: Improved Stat, at least one other advance): Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +3.

DRIVES

- Preserve a story, Name, or tradition that would otherwise be lost.
- Name a Horror, a corruption, or a hidden truth others are afraid to speak.
- Inspire someone to act with courage through your words or art.
- Discover and record something new about the world after the Scourge.

GEAR

Load 7.

- Naming journal and ink set (□)
- Troubadour's instrument: lyre, drum, or bone flute (□)
- Traveler's cloak, thread-woven (1 armor, worn, □)
- Short sword or long knife (hand, □)
- Pouch of thread tokens and pattern charms (□)
- Kaer map collection, fragmentary (□)

Optional Moves — Earthdawn

Jednostronicowa karta ruchów opcjonalnych do settingu.

DELVE INTO THE KAER

When you enter a sealed kaer, forgotten citadel, or ruin that has been closed since the Scourge, roll +WIS. On a 10+, choose 2. On a 7-9, choose 1.

- You read the wards and markings well enough to know what broke in.
- You find signs of survivors, supplies, or a safe route deeper.
- You notice where the architecture has been twisted by a Horror's presence before it notices you.

SENSE THE HORROR MARK

When you open yourself to the astral plane to detect Horror taint on a creature, place, or object, roll +WIS. On a 10+, you perceive the nature and depth of the corruption clearly — the GM will tell you what kind of Horror influence this is and how far it has spread. On a 7-9, you sense the taint but choose one: the contact gives the Horror a glimpse of you in return, the vision is incomplete and the GM gives you only a fragment, or the effort leaves you shaken — take disadvantage forward.

WEAVE A THREAD

When you attempt to weave a magical thread to a thread item, a place of power, or a pattern you have studied, roll +INT. On a 10+, the thread takes hold — you unlock the item's next ability or gain the insight you sought. On a 7-9, the thread connects, but choose one: the weaving draws unwanted attention from the astral, you must sacrifice something personal to anchor the thread, or the connection is fragile and will snap if you take harm before your next rest.

BRAVE THE POISONED LAND

When the group travels through desolate post-Scourge wilderness — blighted forests, collapsed trade roads, corrupted river passages, or the wastes near the Blood Wood — roll +CON. On a 10+, choose 2. On a 7-9, choose 1.

- You avoid the worst of the lingering corruption and tainted ground.
- You find a landmark, old trail marker, or shelter that still holds.
- You spot a Horror construct, cadaver man patrol, or ambush before it closes on you.

NEGOTIATE UNDER THE EMPIRE'S SHADOW

When you deal with Theran agents, rival merchant houses, or powerful figures whose loyalty is divided between Barsaive and the Theran Empire, roll +CHA. On a 10+, choose 2. On a 7-9, choose 1.

- You learn what they truly want beneath the politics.
- You secure an agreement that does not cost your freedom or honor.
- You leave the encounter without giving them leverage over you or your allies.

03	at the blighted edge of the Blood Wood
04	beneath the ruins of a pre-Scourge city
05	on a floating earthen island tethered by ancient chains
06	in the Servos Jungle where no trails survive
07	amid the Scarlet Sea salt flats
08	high on a cliff face above the Coil River
09	inside a network of lava tubes near Death's Sea
10	beyond the Theran garrison's patrol range
11	where the Badlands meet the last green hills
12	in a flooded canyon carved by meltwater
13	beneath a namegiver village that knows nothing of it
14	within a crystal cavern humming with astral energy
15	on the Aras Sea coast battered by unnatural storms
16	at the crossroads of three abandoned trade routes
17	behind wards that still flicker with dying magic
18	inside a troll moot hall built into living rock
19	along the only pass through the Twilight Peaks
20	where the ground is stained by Horror blood that never dries

TABLE 3: TARGET

leading to

01	a sealed kaer whose gates never reopened after the Scourge.
02	the overgrown ruins of a forgotten Theran outpost.
03	a crystal grove grown around a wounded dragon's dream.
04	the drowned vaults beneath an abandoned T'skrang trade port.
05	an obsidimen liferock chamber split by Horror marks.
06	the hidden aeries above a windling kingdom in the canopy.
07	a blood ward maze beneath a fallen noble's manor.
08	a sky dock hanging silent over a canyon of storms.
09	the ash-blackened temple of a Passion no one names aloud.
10	a caravan road swallowed by poisonous jungle vines.
11	the elemental furnace below a ruined dwarven foundry.
12	a Theran amphitheater turned into a slave pen by raiders.
13	the buried library of a wizard who mapped thread paths in bone.
14	a salt flat where ghost lights circle an unopened barrow.
15	the shattered bridge spanning a gorge haunted by air spirits.
16	an ork war camp built around a pre-Scourge monument.
17	the moonlit pools where corrupted water elementals gather.
18	a hollow mountain shrine guarded by old stone wards.
19	the hidden court of a jungle spirit bound by old bargains.
20	a Horror-scarred battlefield still ringing with trapped battle cries.

TABLE 4: PURPOSE & MISSION

We are here to

01	open the kaer safely before something inside opens it first
02	rescue namegivers enslaved by a Theran expedition
03	destroy a Horror's anchor before it can fully manifest
04	broker peace between two communities fighting over scarce resources
05	map the ruins so Throal can send a proper expedition
06	escort a Passion's questor to a sacred site through hostile territory
07	recover a thread item before it falls into the wrong hands
08	seal the astral rift that is drawing Horrors to the area
09	prove that the local lord has been Horror-marked
10	establish a trade route through territory no one has crossed since the Scourge
11	break a blood magic curse laid upon a namegiver community
12	defend a newly opened kaer while its people learn the new world
13	infiltrate a Theran stronghold to free prisoners
14	negotiate a T'skrang river passage for a dwarven merchant guild
15	perform the ritual that will lay restless dead to peace
16	hunt a Horror construct terrorizing the countryside
17	deliver a warning before the next attack falls
18	gather allies from scattered communities for a common stand
19	uncover which faction sabotaged the airship and why
20	finish the work of adepts who died before they could complete it

TABLE 5: MINOR THREATS & OBSTACLES

guarded by

01	cadaver men shambling through collapsed corridors
02	Theran war golems still following ancient orders
03	desperate scavengers who kill for scraps of orichalcum
04	corrupted elementals bound to crumbling wards
05	a tribe of ferals who have forgotten their namegiver heritage
06	Horror constructs patrolling in silent formation
07	crystal raiders demanding tribute for passage
08	blood thorns and living vegetation twisted by the Blood Wood
09	traps and wards set by paranoid kaer dwellers long dead
10	a pack of war wolves drawn by the scent of magic
11	Theran slave soldiers with no will of their own
12	ork scorcher raiders claiming the territory as theirs
13	spirits of the betrayed dead who cannot tell friend from foe
14	insect swarms bred in Horror-tainted flesh pits
15	a crumbling labyrinth that shifts when no one watches
16	mercenaries hired by a rival merchant house
17	T'skrang river pirates blockading the only approach
18	fungal growths that release spores of madness
19	animated stone guardians older than the Scourge
20	a blood magic alarm that summons worse things when triggered

TABLE 6: MAJOR BOSS & ANTAGONIST

and

01	a Horror that wears the face of the kaer's beloved leader.
02	a Theran magister who will burn everything to hide the Empire's failure.
03	a corrupted questor of a Passion, preaching twisted devotion.
04	a dragon playing all sides for its own inscrutable purpose.
05	a blood elf knight who cannot stop killing and does not want to.
06	a nethermancer who bargained with a Horror and believes they won.
07	a troll warlord building an army from broken kaer survivors.
08	a cadaver man general with enough cunning to lead a siege.
09	the Horror that fed on this kaer for centuries and considers it home.
10	a Theran slaver captain whose airship commands the sky above.
11	an obsidiman corrupted at the liferock, spreading taint through the brotherhood.
12	a windling spy whose loyalty was purchased by the Theran Empire long ago.
13	the last adept of a dead discipline, willing to kill to preserve its secrets.
14	a spirit of vengeance that has forgotten what justice means.
15	an ork warlord sworn to a Horror without knowing its true nature.
16	a merchant prince whose blood magic keeps an entire city compliant.
17	a nameless Horror that speaks only through the dreams of children.
18	the founder of the kaer, kept alive by terrible means, demanding obedience still.
19	a T'skrang aropagoi who has sacrificed their niall for personal power.
20	one of our own companions, Horror-marked in secret since before we arrived.
