THE ANCIENT MAGE

You have lived long enough to bury everyone who ever knew you. You weren't distant — you just didn't realize how fast they were going. You are still learning to pay attention.

NAME

Pick a name:

Elf: Silvane, Tessra, Eulalie, Vorn / Caelith, Merrath, Solven, Astryn

Ancient Human: Agatha, Mildred, Cornelius, Vess / Roland, Magnus, Aldric, Bastian

Northern Wanderer: Inga, Sigrid, Marta, Hulde / Wendel, Arno, Klaus, Bertold

Nameless Traveler: Ash, Pale, Ember, Wander / Dusk, Kestrel, Mire, Veil

LOOK

Pick one from each row:

Heritage: ancient elf | human who found a life-extension spell | wanderer without a home race | ask the table

Age: looks young, is ancient | ageless and unsettling | weathered by centuries, not years

Eyes: distant and cataloguing | suddenly warm when interested | always measuring how long someone has left

Build: slight and unhurried | still and precise | graceful with no wasted motion

Clothing: traveler's robes layered over centuries | simple garb repaired a thousand times | scholar's coat with arcane notation stitched in

Signature: a grimoire always at hand | the habit of speaking too slowly | a faint smile that arrives late

BACKGROUND

Pick one.

FOREST HERMIT

You isolated yourself after a loss and spent too many years going nowhere. When you emerge from self-imposed stillness to act on someone else's behalf, take +1 forward.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you found me in isolation and convinced me to leave?
- Which of you knows what I was waiting for in that forest?
- Which of you has seen me grieve in a way I could not explain?
- Which of you reminds me of someone I have already lost?

PUPIL OF A LEGEND

A great mage trained you before they passed. Their methods live in your hands. When you use a technique or philosophy your mentor taught you and describe it aloud, take +1 forward.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you has heard of my mentor by reputation?
- Which of you asked me something my mentor would have asked?
- Which of you noticed me doing something I learned from them?
- Which of you would I most want to introduce to my mentor — if only they were still here?

MANA SUPPRESSOR

You learned long ago to hide your true power. Enemies routinely underestimate you. When you reveal your full mana for the first time in a conflict, take +1 forward and your enemy takes disadvantage on their next action.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you sensed something off about me before I revealed myself?
- Which of you has seen me strike down something much stronger than I appeared?
- Which of you was unsettled when you discovered my true capacity?
- Which of you trusts me more, now that you know what I've been hiding?

KEEPER OF STATUES

You maintain the markers and monuments of those who came before — heroes, friends, the forgotten. When you return to a place associated with someone you've lost, ask the GM one question about what they did or felt here. The GM answers honestly.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you noticed me pausing at a memorial without explaining why?
- Which of you knows the name of someone whose statue I tend?
- Which of you reminded me, in some small way, of one of the dead?
- Which of you would I want remembered — if something happened to me?

WORLD OF VISUALIZATION

Magic is only as strong as what you can genuinely imagine. When you cast a spell you have prepared, roll +INT. On a 10+, it works as intended. On a 7-9, it works but choose one: it takes longer than expected, draws unwanted attention, or costs something small.

LIVING GRIMOIRE

You have studied many categories of magic over your long life. Name a type of spell (weather, illusion, fire, binding, transformation, etc.) — you have studied it. You can ask the GM one question about how a spell in that category could help the current situation. The GM answers honestly.

ANCIENT ADVANTAGE

When you face something old — a ruin, a demon, a forgotten spell, a buried institution — you have advantage on rolls to understand or interact with it.

MANA SUPPRESSION

Your true power is hidden. Enemies cannot gauge your strength until you reveal it. The first time you act decisively against something that underestimated you in a scene, take +1 forward.

PATIENT STUDY

When you spend time quietly observing a creature, person, or magical phenomenon before acting, ask the GM one question about its weakness, motivation, or method. The GM answers honestly.

BORROWED TIME

The first time each session you watch someone mortal do something selfless or brave, mark XP.

ADVANCES

- Ancient Grimoire: Gain access to one unusual spell from a lost magical era. Describe what it does; the GM approves.
- Mana Flare: Once per conflict, reveal your full mana — all enemies in sight hesitate, and you take +1 forward.
- Long Memory: When something reminds you of the distant past, you may ask one additional question about the current situation.
- Teach by Doing: When you model something for an ally rather than explain it, they take +1 forward to their next attempt.
- The Weight of Years: Once per session, when you carry grief for someone who died long before anyone else knew them, mark XP.
- Improved Stat: Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +2.
- Superior Stat (Requires: Improved Stat, at least one other advance): Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +3.

DRIVES

- Collect a spell you have never seen before.
- Witness a mortal make the most of the time they have.
- Act on a regret you have been carrying for too long.
- Let someone in, even briefly.

Age: young but worn by spiritual burden | middle-aged and unhurried | old and moving like they've settled some debt

Eyes: kind and tired | sharp beneath the gentleness | measuring how much life remains in a room

Build: comfortable and slow-moving | wiry beneath soft clothes | stooped, but only slightly

Clothing: priest's vestments, travel-stained | layered traveling clothes with holy symbols | plain clothes with a hidden relic

Signature: a flask they reach for when no one's looking | a habit of offering more than they should | the way they look at the dying

Pick one.

DEATH ANXIETY

You once admitted to yourself, in the dark, that you are afraid to die. It changed how you act. When you help someone else face their own mortality with courage, mark XP.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you knows that I'm afraid, even if I don't say it?
- Which of you I've seen face death more calmly than I could manage?
- Which of you has offered me the kind of comfort I've offered others?
- Which of you keeps me honest about how much time I'm wasting?

ADOPTED CHILD

You raised someone who will outlive you. That was the point. Once per session, when someone you care for is in danger and you act without hesitation, take +1 forward.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you reminds me of the person I raised?
- Which of you has seen me look at someone the way a parent looks?
- Which of you knows what I gave up to take care of someone else?
- Which of you I hope will look after them after I'm gone?

VILLAGE ROOTS

You left comfort and belonging behind — a place, a congregation, a life that was smaller but easier. When you choose the harder path over the easier one, mark XP.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you was the reason I left?
- Which of you thinks I stayed gone out of courage, not restlessness?
- Which of you knows how close I came to going back?
- Which of you I worry will stay behind when the rest of us keep moving?

LAST RITES

You have sat with many people at the end. You know what the dying need. When you offer genuine comfort to someone facing death, ask the GM one question about what they truly need to hear. The GM answers honestly.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you has let me sit with their grief?
- Which of you has asked me what dying feels like?
- Which of you I worry I'll be sitting with too soon?
- Which of you keeps me from giving up on the ones I can still help?

GODDESS'S GRACE

When you heal someone, roll +WIS. On a 10+, remove a debility or restore 1d8 HP. On a 7-9, restore 1d6 HP.

CURSE RESISTANCE

Priests carry a natural shield against magical compulsion. When you resist a curse, magical fear, or enchantment, take +1 forward.

FINAL HOURS

When someone is dying or reduced to 0 HP, your healing magic has advantage.

LEGACY WORK

When you act to ensure your positive impact survives you — through a student, a written record, a final gift, a promise kept — mark XP.

HOLY LIGHT

You can produce soft warm light from your hands or holy symbol. When used against the undead or demons, they take disadvantage against you.

PROPER ADULT

When you counsel another character through their stagnation, fear, or grief, they take +1 forward. If they act on your counsel this session, you mark XP.

ADVANCES

- Stronger Blessing: Your healing removes one condition in addition to restoring HP.
- Against the Night: Once per session, banish or delay one undead creature without a roll.
- Borrowed Years: By touch, you can take on another character's debility or condition, transferring it to yourself.
- The Good Life: When you share a meal, a drink, or simple comfort with an ally, they heal 1d6 HP and you mark XP.
- Long Influence: When someone you've helped in the past returns to help you, they have advantage on their first action.
- Improved Stat: Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +2.
- Superior Stat (Requires: Improved Stat, at least one other advance): Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +3.

DRIVES

- Ensure something good survives you.
- Reach someone trapped in their own stagnation.
- Drink with someone tonight who may be gone tomorrow.
- Do something heroic and let someone else take the credit.

Ancient Elf: Calael, Vorrith, Mern, Syla / Caelith, Doran, Arith, Geln

Forgotten Veteran: Stone, Barrow, Flint, Ash / Gravel, Pike, Rust, Timber

LOOK

Pick one from each row:

Heritage: ancient dwarf, last of a warrior generation | old human veteran who refused retirement | elder elf who chose a warrior's life | ask the table

Age: old enough to have seen all of this before | physically ancient, still imposing | age shows only in the eyes

Eyes: unhurried and measuring | kind, with a deep undertow of grief | steady and present

Build: massive and weathered | thick as iron, still carrying old wounds | hulking in a way that reads as calm

Clothing: repaired armor worn to a shine | plain heavy clothes that resist everything | layered warrior's kit with no ceremony

Signature: scars that have become part of the face | movements that waste nothing | listening more than speaking

BACKGROUND

Pick one.

SOLE SURVIVOR

Everyone who trained alongside you is gone. You carry their methods, their stories, their unfinished business. When you fight to preserve what they built, mark XP.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you has asked me about someone I used to fight beside?
- Which of you I worry about outliving?
- Which of you fights in a way that reminds me of someone I've lost?
- Which of you I'd trust to carry this forward, if I can't?

FEARED DISCIPLE

You once trained someone, saw how powerful they were becoming, and it frightened you. You may have handled it poorly. When you acknowledge another person's strength honestly and without qualification, mark XP.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you I've already assessed and not said a word about?
- Which of you I would take on as a disciple, if I were younger?
- Which of you reminds me of a mistake I made with someone I trained?
- Which of you I worry I've already let down, without knowing it?

DELIBERATE CHOICE

You chose to stay active when staying still would have been easier. When you choose the harder path instead of rest, retirement, or quiet endings, take +1 forward.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you asked me why I'm still doing this at my age?
- Which of you understood without asking?
- Which of you I'm here partly because of?
- Which of you I hope still needs me — because I need to be needed?

IRON REPUTATION

Stories about your past precede you. Sometimes they're accurate. When someone in the scene knows who you are, they take disadvantage to act against you.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you had heard my name before we met?
- Which of you was surprised I was still alive?
- Which of you has seen the gap between the story and the person?
- Which of you I think could surpass anything the stories say about me?

STARTING MOVES

UNNATURAL DURABILITY

Your body absorbs damage that would destroy others. When you take damage, reduce it by 1 (minimum 1).

IRON FOUNDATION

When you plant your feet and refuse to be moved, enemies have disadvantage on attempts to knock you down, push you back, or break your concentration.

LET THEM TRY

When an enemy attacks you and misses, deal your damage die in return without rolling.

STILL STANDING

When you are reduced below half HP, deal +1d6 damage until the end of the conflict.

STEADY HANDS

When you assist an ally in combat, they have advantage on their next roll.

OLD LESSONS

When you tell a younger character something relevant from your past — a method, a memory, a hard truth — they take +1 forward.

ADVANCES

- Immovable: Once per session, survive a hit that would have killed anyone else. You remain at 1 HP.
- The Last Wall: When you take a hit meant for an ally, reduce the damage to them to 0.
- Legendary Past: When you describe something from your past that no one in the room has ever witnessed, mark XP.
- Iron Mentor: When a character uses something you taught them and succeeds, you mark XP.
- Not Yet: Once per session, when you would die, you don't. You survive at 1 HP.
- Improved Stat: Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +2.
- Superior Stat (Requires: Improved Stat, at least one other advance): Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +3.

ORPHAN'S DEBT

Your guardian gave their remaining years for you. That matters more than they ever let on. When you honor their legacy through action — completing what they started, protecting who they loved — mark XP.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you knows what was sacrificed for me?
- Which of you has seen me pause at the thought of someone I've lost?
- Which of you reminds me of what I'm supposed to become?
- Which of you I worry I'm disappointing, the way I feared disappointing them?

PRAGMATIC APPRENTICE

You learned that efficiency matters more than elegance. When you solve a problem with a common or ordinary spell that others are using something more complex for, take +1 forward.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you has underestimated what ordinary magic can do?
- Which of you asked me why I don't use something more impressive?
- Which of you I've already quietly solved a problem for, without them noticing?
- Which of you I find genuinely difficult to read?

PRODIGY'S SHADOW

There was someone more gifted — or more celebrated — and you lived in their shadow. When you surpass an expectation someone held for you, mark XP.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you expected less of me than I expected of myself?
- Which of you saw what I was capable of before I did?
- Which of you has compared me to someone else and thought I came up short?
- Which of you I will prove wrong, eventually?

STRICT PRACTICE

You have trained harder than anyone required. Repetition is not weakness — it is precision. When you use a spell or technique you've already used successfully this session, take +1 forward.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you has seen me practice when no one was watching?
- Which of you told me I was working too hard?
- Which of you I've outpaced without either of us meaning to make it a competition?
- Which of you makes me want to stop practicing and just be present?

STARTING MOVES

RELENTLESS OFFENSE

You have mastered ordinary offensive magic to a level that surprises veterans. When you use your trained attack spell, roll +INT. On a 10+, deal 1d8+1 damage. On a 7-9, deal 1d6 damage.

EFFICIENT CASTING

You cast faster than most mages can track. When you act before your enemy in a conflict, take +1 forward.

EMOTIONAL CONTROL

When something would break your concentration, roll +WIS. On a 10+, you hold focus and suffer no penalty. On a 7-9, you hold focus but the distraction costs you something.

MENTOR'S METHOD

When you use a technique or principle your mentor taught you and describe how, take +1 forward.

QUIET OBSERVATION

When you watch an opponent use magic before engaging them, ask the GM one question about their approach, limits, or weaknesses. The GM answers honestly.

FIRST STRIKE

When you open a conflict by attacking before anyone expects aggression, deal +1d6 damage.

ADVANCES

- Mastered Form: Your damage die becomes d10.
- Blinding Speed: Once per session, cast a spell before anyone can interrupt or react.
- Efficient Grimoire: You have memorized every spell you know. You no longer need a book to cast them.
- Composure Under Fire: You have advantage on concentration rolls when injured.
- Surpass the Master: Once per session, when you exceed an expectation your mentor set for you, mark XP and take +1 forward for the rest of the scene.
- Improved Stat: Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +2.
- Superior Stat (Requires: Improved Stat, at least one other advance): Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +3.

DRIVES

SURVIVOR'S GUILT

Your home is gone. You lived because someone else didn't. When you fight to protect someone who cannot protect themselves, take +1 forward.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you knows what I ran from?
- Which of you has seen me freeze when I should have acted?
- Which of you reminds me of someone who didn't survive?

- Which of you has asked me something my master once asked me?
- Which of you noticed me imitating someone who isn't here?
- Which of you I would most want to bring back stories to?

DRAGON SLAYER

You once did something impossible when everyone needed you to. The village knows the story. You don't feel like the person they tell it about. Once per session, when you face something overwhelming and push through anyway, mark XP.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you has heard a version of the story about me?
- Which of you didn't believe it until you saw me fight?
- Which of you knows what I thought about just before I survived?
- Which of you looks at me the same way, whether or not the story is true?

STAGNANT VILLAGE

You stayed in one place too long — comfortable, safe, hollow. When you leave behind comfort or safety to keep moving toward something uncertain, mark XP.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you pulled me out of the life I was sleepwalking through?
- Which of you asked me the question I had been avoiding?
- Which of you I worry would be better off without my past following them?
- Which of you reminds me that moving forward is worth the cost?

STARTING MOVES

OVERWHELMING STRENGTH

When you use raw physical power — lift, break, throw, or strike — you have advantage.

ABSORB THE BLOW

When you take a hit meant for someone nearby, reduce the damage to yourself by 1d6 and they take none.

IMPOSTER'S FIRE

When you fight while doubting yourself out loud — the GM hears it — take +1 forward.

FEAR IS A SHARPENER

When you fight something that genuinely terrifies you, deal +1d6 damage on a 10+.

I CAN KEEP UP

When an ally is more experienced or skilled than you, take +1 forward when working directly alongside them.

STUBBORN BODY

When you would be incapacitated, you may keep acting at 1 HP until the end of the scene.

ADVANCES

- Titan Effort: Once per session, automatically succeed on a feat of raw physical strength, no roll required.
- My People Don't Run: You never take disadvantage from fear-based effects.
- Crushing Blow: Your damage die becomes d12 when you attack something that has injured an ally.
- Remembered Story: Once per session, tell an ally a story of a warrior from your past. They mark XP.
- Legacy Warrior: When you dedicate a kill to someone from your past and name them aloud, take +1 forward for the rest of the scene.
- Improved Stat: Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +2.
- Superior Stat (Requires: Improved Stat, at least one other advance): Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +3.

DRIVES

- Kill something your mentor told stories about.
- Protect someone who has given up on protecting themselves.
- Tell a story worth bringing back to someone who matters.
- Admit out loud that you're afraid — and fight anyway.

Optional Moves — Frieren: Beyond Journey's End

Jednostronicowa karta ruchów opcjonalnych do settingu.

AGAINST THE CLOCK

When you push through failing health, exhaustion, or rapidly closing time to complete something vital, roll +CON. On a 10+, you finish in time and mark XP. On a 7-9, choose one: you finish but take a debility, or you don't quite finish but hold on long enough for someone else to.

PULLING SOMEONE BACK

When you confront a person trapped in stagnation, resignation, or fear and offer them a concrete reason to move forward, roll +CHA. On a 10+, something in them shifts — they act on it and mark XP. On a 7-9, they hear you, but something still holds them. Tell the GM what it is.

ANCIENT GROUND

When you travel through a place touched by old magic, long-dead heroes, or past catastrophe, roll +WIS. On a 10+, the GM gives you two true pieces of information about what happened here. On a 7-9, you learn one true thing — but something here takes notice of you.

LEAVE SOMETHING BEHIND

When you ensure that a person, deed, or memory will outlive you — through a student, a monument, a written record, or a final act carried out at cost — mark XP. If what you leave is connected to someone already gone, mark XP again.

TABLE 1: ACTION & LOCATION

We discover

01	a sealed tomb engraved in a language no living scholar reads
02	a crumbling mage's tower, still warm with residual mana
03	an active demon encampment disguised as a peaceful village
04	an ancient grimoire sealed by a spell that feeds on regret
05	a ruin marked with the crest of the original hero's party
06	a statue missing its inscription — someone removed it deliberately
07	a village where everyone has been waiting, for reasons they can't name
08	the bones of a mage who died trying to reach somewhere north
09	a rift in the forest's mana field that grows larger each night
10	an abandoned workshop whose last experiment is still running
11	a bridge sealed with a demon's curse from fifty years ago
12	a battlefield carpeted in flowers that bloom only over old blood
13	a spell inscribed in stone that was never meant to be found
14	a shrine built by no living hand, recently tended
15	a mana suppression zone of unknown origin and purpose
16	the last outpost of a civilization that died before the Demon King
17	an underground passage older than any record of the continent
18	a lake that shows visions — but only of the past, never the future
19	a library whose books are slowly and silently disappearing
20	the site of a legendary duel, still crackling with residual magic

TABLE 2: PLACEMENT & GEOGRAPHY

which lies

01	at the edge of the northern plateau, past where maps are reliable
02	beneath the roots of a forest that hasn't been entered in decades
03	within a village where the season never seems to change
04	at the crossing of two roads that no one uses anymore
05	inside a mountain that mages refuse to enter and will not explain
06	at the border of demon-held territory, past a collapsed gate
07	along the path the original hero's party once walked
08	where a river should be but has been dry for a generation
09	at the base of a cliff covered in old carvings no one has translated
10	inside the shell of a town destroyed in the war, never rebuilt
11	under a glacier that has been melting faster than it should
12	in the hollow of a tree old enough to have watched the world change
13	at the center of a crater of magical origin, unmarked on any map
14	beyond a gate sealed since the Demon King's era
15	inside a city that was saved but has never recovered from the saving
16	deep within a forest that resists being charted
17	in the remains of what was once a school for mages
18	at a location all maps record differently
19	beyond the northern pass that only the dead are said to know
20	at the place where Aureole's light is visible on the clearest nights

TABLE 3: TARGET

leading to

01	Aureole, the land where souls rest
02	a demon fortress that survived the fall of the Demon King
03	the ruins of Flamme's first tower
04	a village that has been waiting for someone to return
05	a pass guarded by something older than the Demon King's reign
06	the resting place of a hero no one remembers
07	a region outside the Continental Mages' jurisdiction
08	a city that trades in secrets and old spells
09	a mages' sanctuary sealed off from the outside world for a century
10	the site of the final battle of a war that history got wrong
11	the hall where the first demon to speak a human language was recorded
12	a forest that remembers everyone who has ever passed through it
13	a place on no map but in every old legend of the continent
14	the valley where the hero's party trained before their journey
15	the gate to lands beyond the northern continent
16	the ruins of a church swallowed by something that moved underneath it
17	a stronghold that fell to demons when no help came in time
18	a cliff at the edge of the world, overlooking open sea
19	a village built on the grave of something enormous and old
20	a location Frieren visited once and has not spoken about since

TABLE 4: PURPOSE & MISSION

We are here to

01	retrieve a grimoire of cursed spells before someone else does
02	seal a demon who was never fully defeated, only contained
03	find the resting place of a companion who died alone and far away
04	destroy a mana crystal sustaining an old battlefield curse
05	protect a village from a demon that returns like clockwork each season
06	uncover the true history of a hero who has been turned into a myth
07	deliver a message intended for someone who is already dead
08	investigate why mages in this region are losing their ability to visualize
09	find a flower that blooms only in ruins touched by powerful magic
10	recover a relic a dying priest wants returned before the end
11	verify whether the peace in this region is genuine or a demon deception
12	translate an ancient text before it disintegrates entirely
13	discover who has been quietly destroying the hero's statues
14	survive long enough for the blizzard to pass and reach the other side
15	fulfill a promise made to someone who can no longer hold us to it
16	reach a specific location before the path closes for another century
17	find out why demons are gathering in territory they abandoned after the war
18	help a mage who has lost their ability to cast find it again
19	break a curse that has outlasted everyone who cast it
20	carry a final message from someone who knows they are dying

TABLE 5: MINOR THREATS & OBSTACLES

guarded by

01	a demon that has disguised itself as a grieving human survivor
02	a mana field that neutralizes all magic within it
03	an ancient guardian built before any current language existed
04	a curse that makes its victims believe they are already dead
05	a mage who lost their mind from decades of solitary study
06	a pack of demons using the hero's party's old tactics against adventurers
07	a barrier only someone who has truly faced their fear can cross
08	the preserved consciousness of a dead archmage, still watching
09	a creature that has been waiting here for longer than the Demon King existed
10	a field of illusions that shows each person their most unbearable memory
11	a demon commander who knows Frieren's mana suppression technique
12	a trap set by the Demon King's army that was never disarmed
13	a mage who refuses to let anyone near what they have sworn to protect
14	a swarm of constructs powered by mana stolen from the living
15	a trial the original hero's party failed three times before passing
16	three demons currently arguing about who gets to kill the intruders
17	a sealed door that can only be opened by someone who has mourned
18	a demon who uses the language of grief as a weapon
19	a place that takes a fragment of memory from everyone who enters
20	an ancient warrior who will only let through someone they judge worthy

TABLE 6: MAJOR BOSS & ANTAGONIST

and

01	Aura the Guillotine, returned and patient
02	a Greater Demon who has been planning for centuries
03	a corrupted mage who has lived too long and forgotten why they started
04	a demon who learned to simulate grief and became something worse for it
05	a general of the Demon King's army, never found after the war's end
06	an ancient elf who chose to serve the Demon King and still walks free
07	a demon specifically hunting the last surviving members of a hero's party
08	a being older than the Demon King who has been watching everything
09	a mage turned demon through a forbidden ritual they cannot reverse
10	a demon who mastered mana suppression and has been hiding in plain sight for decades
11	a former hero who made a bargain that cost them everything but their life
12	the last surviving lieutenant of the Demon King's inner circle
13	a demon of such refined magical specialization that no one can visualize a defense
14	the thing that nearly killed Frieren six hundred years ago
15	a demon who collects the regrets of the dying as currency and power
16	a curse-demon bred to outlast the hero's party and finish what the war started
17	an ancient bound entity that grows stronger as its prison decays
18	a demon who has memorized and inverted every spell in Flamme's grimoire
19	a demon city-ruler who views humanity as a brief infestation
20	a demon who killed the hero's party in another timeline and is wondering about this one
