Species: Human | Vulcan | Betazoid | Trill | ask the table

Age: seasoned and composed | younger than the chair suggests | old enough to remember worse crises

Eyes: patient and penetrating | warm and reassuring | distant and calculating

Build: formal and upright | athletic and ready | slight but unyielding

Uniform: pristine command red | duty-worn jacket and open collar | ceremonial sash or diplomatic pin

Signature: folded hands behind your back | a voice that silences the room | a private token from home

BACKGROUND

Pick one.

DIPLOMATIC PRODIGY

You learned early that borders move more easily than people think. When you open formal negotiations with a faction that has heard of Starfleet, say what reputation precedes you and take +1 forward.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you saw me talk our way out of a battle?
- Which of you thinks I care more about peace than justice?
- Which of you knows the envoy I failed to save?
- Which of you still waits for me to break protocol for you?

FRONTIER VETERAN

You commanded during shortages, isolation, and uncertain maps. When the ship enters an under-supplied or poorly charted region, ask the GM what old instinct warns you first.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you served with me when support never came?
- Which of you has seen me make the hard call and hates me for it?
- Which of you learned endurance from me the hard way?
- Which of you believes I am still fighting an old war?

POLITICAL APPOINTMENT

Someone important fought to put you in this chair. When Starfleet Command, an admiralty office, or a planetary government gets involved, say what strings still pull at you and gain leverage with them.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you knows who sponsored my rise?
- Which of you suspects I am here for reasons beyond merit?
- Which of you once covered for my inexperience?
- Which of you expects me to disappoint command on purpose?

SCHOLAR OF CIVILIZATIONS

Before you commanded a ship, you studied peoples, philosophies, and long arcs of history. When you cite precedent, ritual, or cultural logic to calm a tense scene, take advantage.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you first saw me treat an alien custom with real respect?
- Which of you thinks I romanticize civilizations I barely know?
- Which of you brought me evidence that changed my worldview?
- Which of you asked me a question I still cannot answer?

STARTING MOVES

MAKE IT SO

When you give a clear order in the middle of danger, say who carries it out and roll +CHA. On a 10+, they execute it and choose 1: it is faster than expected, cleaner than expected, or it reveals an opening. On a 7-9, they do it, but the GM chooses a cost, delay, or complication.

CAPTAIN'S LOG

When you take a quiet moment to record the truth of the mission, ask the GM one question about the situation, the ship, or your enemy; take +1 forward acting on the answer.

THE WEIGHT OF THE CHAIR

When everyone looks to you for the final call, you may name the principle guiding your decision. If the crew follows it, everyone involved takes +1 forward; if it goes badly, mark XP.

FORMAL RECEPTION

When you meet a leader, dignitary, or representative under ceremonial conditions, roll +INT. On a 10+, ask 3. On a 7-9, ask 1.

- What do they really want from us?
- What etiquette matters here?
- Who in this room resents our presence?
- What could turn this meeting into a crisis?

VOICE OF THE FEDERATION

When you invoke Starfleet law, Federation ideals, or your commission to stay a hand or open a door, roll +CHA. On a 10+, they hesitate, comply, or hear you out. On a 7-9, they demand proof, concession, or visible strength first.

AWAY TEAM OVERRIDE

When you step onto the away mission yourself, everyone present knows this is no routine survey. Once per mission, you may redirect blame, danger, or attention from another PC onto yourself.

ADVANCES

- Steady Under Fire: When you remain calm in a crisis, allies taking their cue from you have advantage.
- Trusted by the Admiralty: Once per session, declare that a command-level contact will answer your message if they plausibly can.
- Read the Negotiation: When you Discern Realities in a diplomatic scene, ask an extra question.
- Command Presence: The first time you speak before hostile witnesses in a scene, take +1 ongoing until violence starts.
- I Know This Crew: Once per session, tell another PC what they need to hear; they take advantage if they act on it.
- Improved Stat: Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +2.
- Superior Stat (Requires: Improved Stat, at least one other advance): Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +3.

DRIVES

- Defuse a conflict without firing first.
- Put yourself in danger to uphold Federation principles.
- Trust a member of the crew with something only you could decide.
- Learn something that changes how you see a civilization.

WARP THEORY WUNDERKIND

You were solving impossible equations before command trusted you with a deck. When you explain a dangerous technical gamble in detail, anyone who follows it knows exactly what failure looks like.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you first realized I was smarter than my rank?
- Which of you still thinks I trust theory too much?
- Which of you watched one of my experiments go catastrophically wrong?
- Which of you backed my work when nobody else would?

CHIEF OF A BROKEN SHIP

You inherited a mess and made it fly. When you crawl through damaged systems, jury-rigged patches count as proper equipment until the scene changes.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you saw the ship I brought back from near death?
- Which of you knows how little sleep I get in a crisis?
- Which of you learned to trust my ugly repairs?
- Which of you remembers the one system I could not save?

HOLODECK TINKERER

You have built tools, diagnostics, and test environments out of simulation space. When you prototype a plan in the holodeck, ask the GM what crucial variable your model misses.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you volunteered for my unsafe test?
- Which of you knows my favorite impossible invention?
- Which of you I accidentally embarrassed with a simulation?
- Which of you believes I care more for systems than for people?

TRANSPORTER WHISPERER

You know the thin line between clean dematerialization and a nightmare in pattern buffers. When you stabilize a transporter lock under pressure, take advantage.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you trusts me to beam you through hell?
- Which of you was once lost in my pattern buffer?
- Which of you blames me for a transporter accident I could not stop?
- Which of you knows how much I hate using people as test cases?

STARTING MOVES

I CAN KEEP HER TOGETHER

When the ship suffers damage, overload, or cascading failure and you rush to keep it operational, roll +INT. On a 10+, choose 3. On a 7-9, choose 2.

- It holds longer than anyone expected.
- You isolate the worst of the failure.
- You do not need to sacrifice another vital system.
- You learn what caused it.

MIRACLE WORKER

Once per session, declare that you have exactly the component, bypass, or improvised solution needed to attempt a repair that should be impossible.

REROUTE POWER

When you divert power from one system to another, name what weakens and what strengthens. The receiving system works now; the sacrificed system fails, flickers, or creates a new problem until restored.

DIAGNOSE THE IMPOSSIBLE

When you study a device, anomaly, or system behaving in ways it should not, roll +WIS. On a 10+, ask 3. On a 7-9, ask 1.

- What is this really drawing power from?
- What failure is about to happen?
- What simple assumption is wrong here?
- How could this be made safe enough for now?

JEFFERIES TUBE RAT

When you move through maintenance shafts, plasma access, or cramped mechanical spaces, you can always get somewhere important eventually. Roll +DEX if time or danger matters.

THE ENGINES KNOW ME

When you talk to the ship like it can hear you, everyone who hears knows whether you are hopeful, angry, or terrified. If the crew takes that emotion seriously, they take +1 forward.

ADVANCES

- Secondary Backup for the Secondary Backup: Once per session, reveal a hidden workaround already in place.
- Pattern Expert: When transporters, replicators, or holodecks go wrong, take advantage.
- Hands in the Plasma: Ignore the first point of harm from heat, radiation, or exposed conduits each scene.
- Chief's Authority: Engineering crews, technicians, and specialists know your reputation and will hear you out.
- Not Pretty, but It Works: Your jury-rigged solutions last a whole mission unless directly broken.
- Improved Stat: Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +2.
- Superior Stat (Requires: Improved Stat, at least one other advance): Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +3.

DRIVES

- Keep the ship running through a crisis nobody planned for.
- Solve a technical mystery before anyone else understands it.
- Protect the crew by taking a dangerous repair on yourself.
- Build something elegant out of panic and scrap.

SHIP'S THERAPIST

You helped crews survive the strain of deep space long before this assignment. When someone finally tells you the truth about their fear, clear one of their immediate hesitations.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you first came to me only because you had no other choice?
- Which of you I know better than is comfortable?
- Which of you thinks I meddle in command decisions?
- Which of you I once kept from breaking apart?

EMPATHIC DIPLOMAT

You were trained to read the room before translators finish their work. When you enter first contact, mediation, or ritual exchange, ask the GM who here is hiding the strongest feeling.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you I warned about an ambassador you should not trust?
- Which of you saw me end a confrontation without raising my voice?
- Which of you fears what I might sense from you?
- Which of you believes feelings make me less objective?

LISTENER OF OLD SORROWS

You have sat with trauma older than wars and species boundaries. When a scene is haunted by memory, grief, or psychic residue, you may ask what pain still shapes it.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you I found weeping where nobody was meant to see?
- Which of you trusted me with a family wound?
- Which of you thinks I hold too much of other people's pain?
- Which of you stayed with me after I touched something terrible?

CIVILIAN VOICE

You are not impressed by command style for its own sake. When you challenge a military or bureaucratic assumption in favor of ordinary lives, take advantage.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you I reminded that regulations are not the same as morality?
- Which of you thinks I am too soft for this ship?
- Which of you asked me to speak for the people command overlooked?
- Which of you has seen me refuse a direct order on ethical grounds?

THE COUNSELOR

STARTING MOVES

WHAT ARE YOU FEELING?

When you focus on someone in a charged moment, roll +WIS. On a 10+, ask 3. On a 7-9, ask 1.

- What emotion is really driving them?
- What are they trying not to reveal?
- Who or what do they care about most here?
- How could I reach them without force?

TALK THEM BACK

When you sit with someone in panic, rage, grief, or psychic distress and speak them through it, roll +CHA. On a 10+, they steady themselves and choose 2. On a 7-9, they choose 1.

- They tell you something true.
- They do not lash out.
- They can act clearly for the moment.
- They trust you going forward.

THE TENSION ON THE BRIDGE

When conflict within the crew threatens the mission, name the person everyone is really reacting to. If they answer honestly, all involved clear the immediate pressure.

COUNSELING RECORD

When you have spent time with a crew member between scenes, you may ask the GM what pressure is quietly building in them.

GENTLE TRUTH

When you say the thing nobody wants said, but say it with care, take +1 forward and whoever hears you knows you meant it sincerely.

SENSE THE FRACTURE

When you enter a place marked by psychic shock, unresolved grief, or emotional violence, the GM will tell you whose feelings still cling to it most strongly.

ADVANCES

- Bridge Presence: The first time you advise command in a scene, everyone hears you out before acting.
- Shared Burden: When someone confesses a painful truth to you, both of you take +1 forward if you act on it together.
- Protective Empathy: When a mental, emotional, or telepathic effect targets an ally near you, you may share its burden.
- Skilled Mediator: On a 12+ while helping two sides understand each other, both reveal a vulnerable truth.
- You Need Rest: Once per session, tell the crew to stand down and recover; if they do, everyone marks XP at camp or downtime as though conditions were safe.
- Improved Stat: Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +2.
- Superior Stat (Requires: Improved Stat, at least one other advance): Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +3.

DRIVES

- Reach someone others have written off.
- Keep the crew emotionally intact through the mission.
- Speak for the vulnerable in a command decision.
- Learn an intimate truth that changes the situation.

Uniform: command red with rolled sleeves | away-team harness and sidearm | immaculate jacket over bruised ribs

Signature: a clipped report | a hand on your phaser | a reputation everyone has heard

BACKGROUND

Pick one.

DECORATED TACTICAL OFFICER

You earned your place in combat and boarding actions. When you assess a battlefield, hostile ship, or defensive position, ask the GM where the weak point is.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you saw me win when we should have lost?
- Which of you thinks I solve problems too quickly with force?
- Which of you pulled me back from crossing a line?
- Which of you still trusts me with their life without hesitation?

EXECUTIVE MEDIATOR

You keep departments, egos, and impossible schedules from tearing each other apart. When two crew members or factions need the same thing right now, you may declare the compromise you once used in a similar situation.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you I once kept from being transferred off the ship?
- Which of you ignores my authority until it matters?
- Which of you knows how much paperwork follows my miracles?
- Which of you owes me for smoothing over your last disaster?

RECOVERED MAVERICK

You were once nearly done in by recklessness, ambition, or grief. When you choose restraint where the old you would have charged in, mark XP.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you remembers me before I got disciplined?
- Which of you still expects me to go too far?
- Which of you helped me rebuild my career?
- Which of you knows what I am trying not to become again?

AWAY TEAM SPECIALIST

You know how to keep a landing party alive when the plan dissolves. When the group enters a hostile site, you may ask each PC where you stationed them, then name one likely threat you prepared for.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you followed me into the worst extraction of our careers?
- Which of you learned to trust my signals without words?
- Which of you I left behind for one terrible minute too long?
- Which of you thinks I belong on the ground, not the bridge?

STARTING MOVES

LEAD THE LANDING PARTY

When you assign immediate roles before an operation, say who watches the flanks, who handles tech, and who takes point, then roll +INT. On a 10+, hold 3. On a 7-9, hold 1. Spend hold during the mission, 1 for 1, to have someone be in position, carrying the right gear, or ready for the trouble arriving now.

BY THE BOOK, UNTIL IT FAILS

When you enforce procedure in a risky scene, take +1 forward. If the procedure fails because reality is worse than protocol assumed, mark XP.

STUN SETTING

You know how to end a fight without making it a massacre. When you attack to disable, disarm, or pin down rather than kill, deal your damage and choose one: you force them into cover, knock something free, or open a path for an ally.

I NEED A DAMAGE REPORT

When chaos erupts aboard ship, name the system you care about most and roll +WIS. On a 10+, ask 3. On a 7-9, ask 1.

- What's about to fail next?
- Who is already in over their head?
- What can still be saved right now?
- Where is the safest place to regroup?

RELIEVE THEM

When someone under your authority freezes, panics, or overreaches, you may step in and take over. If they let you, they clear fear, confusion, or hesitation and you take +1 forward dealing with the fallout.

STAND FAST

When you hold a line, doorway, corridor, or transporter pad against superior numbers, roll +CON. On a 10+, choose 2. On a 7-9, choose 1.

- You keep them back.
- You protect someone behind you.
- You buy enough time for the plan to change.
- You do not get cut off.

ADVANCES

- Veteran of the Frontier: You always count as having served in the sort of dangerous theater now in play.
- Ready Room Candor: When you privately challenge a superior with the truth, take advantage.
- Perfect Timing: Once per scene, arrive exactly when another PC needed backup.
- Boarding Action: When combat spills into cramped, close-quarters shipboard spaces, deal +1d6 damage the first time you strike.
- Keep Them Together: When you rally scattered allies, everyone who follows your lead clears one minor condition or panic.
- Improved Stat: Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +2.
- Superior Stat (Requires: Improved Stat, at least one other advance): Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +3.

DRIVES

- Step into danger so the crew does not have to hesitate.
- Turn a failing plan into an extraction.
- Speak an unwelcome truth to command.
- Earn the loyalty of someone who doubted you.

EXOBIOLOGIST

You know life adapts faster than doctrine. When you examine a living ecosystem, pathogen, or creature, the GM must tell you one thing it needs to survive.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you I once treated like a specimen before I knew better?
- Which of you helped me save a life I first misread?
- Which of you thinks my curiosity will get us killed?
- Which of you has seen me become emotional over a discovery?

ASTROPHYSICIST

Nebulae, pulsars, gravitic shear, and subspace turbulence speak a language you understand. When you chart a cosmic danger, ask the GM what pattern only you notice.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you still remembers my prediction that saved the ship?
- Which of you ignored my warnings once?
- Which of you I dragged into a dangerous observation post?
- Which of you knows the anomaly I cannot stop thinking about?

CYBERNETIC SPECIALIST

You have worked at the border between person and machine. When you interact with artificial intelligence, augmentation, or machine consciousness, take +1 forward.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you asked me whether a machine can have a soul?
- Which of you saw me defend an artificial lifeform nobody else trusted?
- Which of you worries I am trying to improve you?
- Which of you knows what I lost to an experiment in identity?

ARCHAEOLOGIST OF THE STARS

You read ruins, relics, and dead empires like living arguments. When you handle an ancient artifact with care, the GM will tell you what danger respectful study avoids.

When you introduce yourself to the other PCs, ask one or more of the following:

- Which of you first brought me a relic that changed my career?
- Which of you thinks I care too much about the dead?
- Which of you saw me break policy to preserve history?

- What happened just before we arrived?
- What should we not touch, activate, or disturb?

STATE THE HYPOTHESIS

When you propose a scientific explanation before the group acts, say what evidence supports it. If the crew follows your theory and it proves true, everyone involved takes +1 forward; if it proves dangerously incomplete, mark XP.

COLD READ

When you observe someone for a few moments in silence, ask the GM whether they are suppressing fear, grief, hostility, or desire.

ADAPT THE SENSORS

When ordinary scans fail, you may say what strange recalibration, particle inversion, or experimental method you attempt. Roll +INT. On a 10+, it works without immediate side effects. On a 7-9, it works, but choose one: it takes time, it reveals your presence, or it destabilizes nearby tech.

LABORATORY CALM

When others panic over a phenomenon you can study, your composure steadies them. Anyone who follows your instructions takes advantage resisting the phenomenon's immediate effects.

UNEXPECTED LIFEFORM

Once per mission, declare that a strange system, anomaly, or structure may actually be alive, aware, or responsive in ways nobody assumed.

ADVANCES

- The Pattern Emerges: When you have enough data, ask the GM what conclusion your peers would still miss.
- Field Scientist: You count as having the right sample tools, restraints, and sterile gear.
- Peer Review: Once per scene, ask another PC what flaw they notice in your plan; if you adapt to it, take advantage.
- Brilliant, If Unsettling: The first time you reveal an uncomfortable truth in a scene, people must react to it before moving on.
- Multidisciplinary: Choose another scientific field; when it applies, take +1 ongoing.
- Improved Stat: Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +2.
- Superior Stat (Requires: Improved Stat, at least one other advance): Increase one of your stats by +1, to a max of +3.

DRIVES

- Understand a phenomenon before anyone destroys it.
- Preserve knowledge that others would rather bury.
- Treat a strange intelligence as a person first.
- Prove a theory under dangerous conditions.

- Ancient artifact fragment or specimen vial (small)
- Universal reference database chip (small)

Optional Moves — Star Trek: The Next Generation

Jednostronicowa karta ruchów opcjonalnych do settingu.

RED ALERT

When the ship goes to red alert and everyone rushes to stations, say what you leave unfinished and roll +WIS. On a 10+, choose 2. On a 7-9, choose 1.

- You reach the right place before the crisis escalates.
- You immediately spot what matters most.
- You bring someone or something important with you.
- You keep your head clear under pressure.

LOCK ONTO THEIR PATTERN

When you try to transport someone through interference, combat, weather, or unstable physics, roll +INT. On a 10+, they arrive where intended. On a 7-9, they arrive, but choose one: they are disoriented, something comes with them, or the lock cannot be repeated without a new approach.

FIRST CONTACT PROTOCOL

When the group makes first contact with a culture that does not yet trust, understand, or welcome the Federation, say who handles diplomacy, who handles science, and who watches for danger, then roll +CHA from the lead diplomat. On a 10+, choose 3. On a 7-9, choose 2.

- You avoid an immediate cultural offense.
- They reveal what they fear most.
- You learn who truly speaks for them.
- They grant a limited invitation or concession.

THROUGH THE JEFFERIES TUBES

When you move through maintenance shafts, service ducts, or hidden access ways to bypass danger or reach a vital system, roll +DEX. On a 10+, you get there quickly and unseen. On a 7-9, you get there, but choose one: you are delayed, you emerge somewhere exposed, or you leave a tool or trace behind.

THE DIRECTIVE PRESSES BACK

When your duty, conscience, and the Prime Directive pull in different directions, name what principle you refuse to abandon and roll +CHA. On a 10+, choose 2. On a 7-9, choose 1.

- You find a narrow path that preserves your principle.
- Someone important sees why your choice matters.
- The consequences stay contained for now.
- You do not have to lie to your own crew about it.

TABLE 1: ACTION & LOCATION

We discover

01	a derelict Galaxy-class saucer section
02	a pre-warp settlement hidden from orbit
03	a drifting Romulan science pod
04	a Federation relay station gone silent
05	an impossibly old alien archive
06	a mining colony begging for evacuation
07	a subspace rupture swallowing sensor returns
08	a diplomatic shuttle missing from its flight plan
09	a holodeck program running without command input
10	a prison transport with no living guards
11	a Borg debris field still transmitting
12	a generation ship waking from cryosleep
13	an archaeological dig under armed quarantine
14	a moon-sized lifeform wrapped in plasma storms
15	a research outpost duplicated phase-for-phase
16	a starbase museum vault opened from within
17	a village where everyone shares the same dream
18	a Cardassian listening post inside Federation space
19	a medical frigate carrying an unknown plague
20	an abandoned courtroom orbiting a dead world

TABLE 2: PLACEMENT & GEOGRAPHY

which lies

01	inside a mutara-class nebula
02	at the edge of the Neutral Zone
03	above a world in civil collapse
04	beneath the rings of a gas giant
05	in a sector erased from navigational charts
06	near a pulsar that distorts timekeeping
07	between two warring colony systems
08	within transporter range of a sacred city
09	beyond a field of gravitic mines
10	under the shadow of a black dwarf star
11	in the wake of a passing quantum filament
12	across territory claimed by three governments
13	near the edge of a pocket dimension
14	buried under polar ice on a class-M world
15	in orbit over a planet under cultural contamination
16	inside an unstable wormhole corridor
17	above an ocean world with living storms
18	among shattered moons and ionized dust
19	behind a veil of metaphasic radiation
20	beside an old battlefield marked by cloaked wreckage

TABLE 3: TARGET

leading to

01	the hidden observatory beneath the capital dome.
02	a refugee station assembled inside a hollow asteroid.
03	the sealed arboretum at the center of a dead starship.
04	a tribunal chamber still waiting for judgment.
05	the underground shrine beneath the first city.
06	a covert transporter nexus under the ice shelf.
07	the ruined promenade where the uprising began.
08	the medical habitat quarantined behind force screens.
09	the command vault under the oldest tower on the moon.
10	an abandoned conference annex beneath the embassy.
11	the flooded archive vault under the research dome.
12	a hidden drydock carved into the planet's mantle.
13	the memorial garden orbiting the battlefield.
14	a cave network full of ancient interface nodes.
15	the shielded kindergarten district beneath the colony.
16	the unstable core chamber of the duplicated station.
17	the mountain monastery where the sky once opened.
18	the emergency habitat hanging inside the ring debris.
19	the courtroom archive sunk below the dust plains.
20	the silent command center inside the lifeform's shell.

TABLE 4: PURPOSE & MISSION

We are here to

01	prevent a war from starting
02	retrieve a missing away team
03	repair a failing reactor before it poisons a world
04	negotiate safe passage for refugees
05	prove whether the anomaly is alive
06	stop a covert violation of the Prime Directive
07	escort a controversial ambassador
08	uncover who sabotaged the station
09	evacuate civilians before orbit collapses
10	recover evidence that can exonerate someone
11	convince a machine intelligence to stand down
12	close a breach leaking temporal echoes
13	secure medical aid for an isolated population
14	prevent an archaeological treasure from becoming a weapon
15	rescue hostages taken during a ceasefire
16	determine which version of reality should survive
17	expose a conspiracy inside Starfleet
18	stop an experiment that is rewriting memory
19	return a child or elder to their people
20	survive long enough to send the truth home

TABLE 5: MINOR THREATS & OBSTACLES

guarded by

01	phase-shifted security drones
02	suspicious local militia with stolen phasers
03	a dangerous storm of charged plasma
04	panicked colonists ready to riot
05	failing structural integrity fields
06	a nest of parasitic energy lifeforms
07	Romulan observers operating under cloak
08	malfunctioning holograms enforcing obsolete orders
09	poisonous spores carried through the vents
10	mines disguised as navigation beacons
11	legal protocol older than the Federation
12	telepathic feedback from the surface
13	shape-changing infiltrators among the staff
14	transporter interference from the crust below
15	frightened children hidden in critical corridors
16	a breached antimatter containment line
17	a zealot sect treating science as blasphemy
18	unstable weather satellites firing blindly
19	scavengers stripping systems while people still live there
20	a tactical officer who refuses to stand down

TABLE 6: MAJOR BOSS & ANTAGONIST

and

01	a Romulan commander convinced peace is weakness.
02	a Borg node trying to rebuild a collective.
03	an admiral covering up a disastrous mistake.
04	a sentient computer that has judged us unfit.
05	a charismatic colonist ready to die for independence.
06	a Cardassian operative who needs this incident to escalate.
07	a temporal double of one of us.
08	a grief-maddened scientist rewriting the laws of the station.
09	an energy being that treats us like lab animals.
10	a Klingon captain hunting honor through catastrophe.
11	a planetary governor hiding crimes behind ceremony.
12	a holodeck intelligence that refuses to be turned off.
13	a changeling saboteur feeding on mistrust.
14	a telepathic tyrant wearing the face of a savior.
15	a black-market collector of living technology.
16	the ancient defense network of a dead empire.
17	a survivor from the ship we thought was lost.
18	the embodiment of an old crew member's unresolved guilt.
19	a prophet, trickster, or godlike being testing our restraint.
20	someone in Starfleet Command who ordered this from the beginning.
